

Kakkalani Village

Kakkalani is a beautiful Village, situated 10km away in south east direction to Thiruvavarur. Thiruvavarur is well known for Thyagaraja swamy temple where Shiva lingam made of Maragadam (once owned and worshipped by Lord Indiran is there.

As heard from earlier generation (*), once Chozha king while performing Kumbabishekam for Thyagaraja swamy temple established 48 shiva temples around this. On each day in this mandalam period post kumbabishekam, kumbabishekam was held for these 48 shiva temples. One of them is “Gnanambal sametha Kalahastiswarar” temple in Kakkalni village. It was also said, Rayar families had settled here initially, before our forefathers (4 to 5 generation earlier) moved in to this village.

Kakkalani Agraharam was beautifully built, with “Kadugayar” river (branch of Kaveri river) flowing in North. On the river bank beautiful Pillayar was there under “Peepal Tree”, now housed in temple premise – “Aathagarai Pillayar Koil”.

On West end of Agraharam, in centre of two rows of house, is Lakshmi Narayanar “Perumal Koil”, with a beautiful gopuram at entrance to temple. People in agraharam can watch deeparadhana, right from their door step. Inside temple on south west corner is “Pambu puttru” – Snake Hole. Even today snakes live here & villagers offer milk. Just behind this temple on Northwest side is a big pond called “Ayyan Kulam”.

On Eastern end is “Gnanambika samedha Kalahstiswarar Koil” – shiva temple. Just opposite to this Poorna Pushkala samedha Ayyanar koil. In front of Ayyanr koil there is another pond.

Few meters away from this temple towards east is “Mazhai Marriamman Koil”, well maintained even now.

Further 1 km away towards east, almost at border of Kakkalni village (just before Retta madagadi village is “ Damodara Pillayar Koil” established by Pannai family.

We are blessed by Shri Shri Kanchi Mahaperiyava visiting our village twice (even visit once is very rare) and blessed by Shri Shri Ramana maharishi. One of his sevaka is from our Pannai family. He after his service for long period of years from his childhood, was brought back & was in Agraharam till his last breath.
